

The new ops page is ready for your review

For the NaviG8r team · from Rishabh · 28 Sep 2026

Nothing changes for anyone yet. The new page sits at `/ops/beta`, beside today's `/ops` page. Once you approve, we open the pull request.

In one minute

- Same jobs as today: approve carriers, release payments, change roles.
- Easier to read: plain words instead of system codes, one card per job, and every result shows next to the button you pressed.
- A safer money step: before a payment is released you see what the shipper paid, the NaviG8r commission and what the carrier gets. Cancel is as easy to reach as Release.
- Each role sees only what it can do, and anything greyed out says why.

What we need from you

1. Look and flow. Does this work for your day-to-day? A yes, or the changes you want.
2. Reason codes. Rishabh suggests picking from a list instead of typing (page 2). Please agree the list.
3. Payment wording. The release box says the carrier "is owed" the amount and is paid in the weekly payout batch. Is that right, and is it how you would say it?
4. Switching over. When should `/ops` start showing the new page? A suggestion: after the team has used `/ops/beta` for a week.

How it was checked

- Rishabh ran every role by hand on test data. The screenshots on the following pages are from that run.
- Automated checks all pass: 174 server tests, 6 new browser tests, and today's page's own tests.
- Four reviews looked for bugs, security gaps, messy code and misleading design. Every serious issue they found was fixed before this document.
- All names, numbers and amounts shown are test data.

Reason codes: typed today, a list proposed

Today an operator types a code such as `DOCUMENTS_REVIEWED`. The page refuses a code in the wrong format, but two people can still type different codes for the same reason, and that makes the carrier's history hard to read later.

Proposal: choose from a list instead. The list shows plain words and saves the code behind them. Nothing is chosen for you.

| Bank account name doesn't match the carrier | <code>BANK_DETAILS_MISMATCH</code> | Reject                            |
| Duplicate account                           | <code>DUPLICATE_ACCOUNT</code>     | Reject                            |
| Not a carrier business                      | <code>NOT_A_CARRIER</code>         | Reject                            |
| Approval taken back                         | <code>APPROVAL_REVOKED</code>      | Review any carrier by ID          |

Only the first code is in use today. The rest are a starting point to edit, not an agreed list.

Questions for you

- Which codes should we add, remove or rename?
- Should Approve and Reject each show only their own reasons?
- Do we need an "Other" option? The server keeps only the code, so "Other" would record no detail.

Not in this version, and why

| Left out                                          | Why                                                                             |
|---------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Accepting proofs of delivery                      | Only shippers can accept a proof today.                                         |
| A list of the team and their roles                | The server has no way to list teammates yet.                                    |
| A warning when two people review the same carrier | The server doesn't notice; the second review silently replaces the first.       |
| Carrier names in the payments table               | The server only sends the carrier ID there. The release box does show the name. |
| Search, and carrier and shipment detail pages     | These need server work, planned for the next phase.                             |

A wrongly formatted reason code. The message appears in that carrier's card, and what you typed stays so you can fix it.

Releasing a payment

Release payment for shipment load-a-expired?

Synthetic Carrier A `carrier-a` is owed ₹45. It goes out in a weekly payout batch to the bank account on file; if there is none yet, it waits until one is added. This can't be undone from the console.

Release ₹45

The confirmation. It shows the full money picture before anything happens: what the shipper paid, the NaviG8r commission, and what the carrier gets. It says the carrier is paid in the weekly payout batch. Cancel is the same size as Release and is highlighted first. Esc or clicking outside also cancels.

After release. The row confirms who released the payment and when, and its label turns green. The shipment that is still on hold stays locked.

Two small things noticed while testing

- After approving a carrier, the "Carriers waiting" count stays the same until you press Reload.
- The logo in the header is so small that "NaviG8r" is hard to read.
